PRIVACY INFORMATION: Statement of Adherence to Privacy Legislation

In accordance with the obligations under the privacy laws of Canada, the Anglican Foundation of Canada adheres to strict rules in the collection, use, and transmission of information relating to the members of the Anglican Foundation of Canada and others with whom we deal.

Such information can only be collected in order to advance the mission of the Anglican Foundation of Canada or some other aspects of its operations, and only with the consent of the individual involved. As well, the Anglican Foundation of Canada cannot disclose such information to parties outside the Anglican Church of Canada without the consent of the individual member or associate, except where required by law. Disclosure to other parts of the Anglican Church of Canada is also subject to restrictions.

Information gathered and maintained by the Anglican Foundation of Canada may never be used for non-Church related commercial activities or for political purposes.
